10 East 63rd Street

Upper East Side | Between Fifth and Madison

This 25-foot-wide, seven-story Neo-Classical brick and limestone mansion currently contains a professional suite and two residential apartments. Spanning almost 10,000 square feet on seven levels, the property's first three stories are augmented by a rear extension.

The full height basement has light wells and two separate staircases to the garden level above. Built on top of the six original levels of living space is a large penthouse with a wrap around roof deck, affording direct views of Central Park and the Manhattan skyline.
